

The Civic Theatre & Quare Hawks present an Irish Premiere

Speaking In Tongues

by Andrew Bovell

Direction: Liam Halligan

Design: by Marcus Costello

Music: Denis Clohessy

Cast:

Noelle Brown, Una Kavanagh, Seamus Moran and Karl O'Neill

A mystery for grown ups! Love, infidelity, mistrust!

'Speaking in Tongues' is a major international success.

'A dazzling new play defiantly universal.'

The Guardian

'Dynamic and captivating.'

The Observer

The Civic Theatre has combined forces with Ireland's most exciting theatre company to bring you an extraordinary piece of contemporary drama.

Full of intrigue, wickedly comic and strangely tender Speaking in Tongues is about the mistakes we make, the consequences we have to bear and the attempts we make to patch things up. You think you're unique but you're not!

Four actors play nine characters. Their lives are connected but not in the way they believe! It combines three stories centering on two pairs of shoes! What happens when a Detective, played by Seamus Moran (Mike Gleeson' of 'Fair City'), is sent on an ordinary Wednesday night to investigate an incident on a lonely country road?

Andrew Bovell shot to fame as the author of 'Strictly Ballroom'.

He is an award-winning, internationally renowned playwright at the height of his powers.

In 'Speaking In Tongues' he uses mystery as the driving dramatic force.

Creating a poetic, yet intimate, psychological thriller.

The Civic Tallaght

01 462 7460

Previews 30th & 31st September

Opens September 1st Wednesday

Runs until Saturday 18th September

Tour

Mermaid Arts Centre Bray	20 – 25 September	01 272 4030
Everyman Palace Cork	27 Sept – 2 October	021 450 3077
Backstage Longford	5, 6 October	043 47888
Belltable Limerick	7, 8, 9 October	061 319 866
Siamsa Tire Tralee	11 – 16 October	066 7123055

For more information contact Kerry at The Civic 01 462 7460