

Press Release*Press Release*Press Release*Press Release*Press Release*Press Release

For Dublin Fringe Festival

Civic Theatre presents

The World Premiere of

Surface Tension

A new urban comedy by Shane Carr

*Directed by Sighle Tóibín * Designed by Bairbre Murray * Lighting Design by John Comiskey Starring: Barry Flanagan, Grace-Anne Kelly, and Susie Lambe*

Opens: Sunday 22nd September @ 8.15pm and runs Wednesday to Sunday every week until Sunday 13th of October

Lunch dates to keep.

Gyms to visit.

Opening nights to be seen at.

The right music, the right shops,
the right clothes, the right parties, the right people. Sound familiar?

In the world premiere of his first, full length play Shane Carr stops and takes a candid look around at the generation who refuse to accept that anything is beyond their reach and finds, what's worse, they might just be right.

An urban comedy, told by three of the hippest, trendiest and downright coolest young twenty something's; Susanna, Charlie and Erika who have their own opinions and are not afraid to express them. They display the differing viewpoints held on the same events, with the vanity and scruples of all three laid bare beneath the surface tension.

From the club to the gym,
from Grafton Street to Temple Bar, from the air-port to the Abbey,
from the city to the suburbs,
our modern world is explored with feeling,
humanity, humour,
and no small dose
of cynicism.
Come join the merry-go-round, you know you want to.

Civic Theatre box office: 01 4627477

Admission: €15 & €12 concession.

Sunday Matinee @ 3 pm: €9

For further information contact Brid/Becky @ 4627460 / civictheatred24@eircom.net